The best rule in the world for selecting Christmas gifts is the golden rule of giving what you yourself would like to receive and that, of course, will suggest Cash's mee-tee Nuts and plenty of them. Children delight in them and grown people welcome them as nourishing, natural confec-

For Christmas gifts we fill attractive baskets and beautifully decorated metal boxes with special assortments of Pecans, Brazil Nuts, Almonds, Walnuts, Filberts and the like-and they are always welcome. Santa Claus never forgets to put in the Christmas stockings a plentiful supply of Cash's mee-tee Nuts-In the shell, shelled or salted.

seemed fully as good a pianist now as then, with both vigor and delicacy in her performance. She brought full force into the opening chords, attempting, it would seem, to draw more sound from the piano than was possible, with a certain effect of hardness, but reached her best in the softer notes of the second theme. Similar delicacy ruled in the andante, especially in its dance-like middle section, with a brilliant finale, in which the planist's full forces were employed to better effect than at first. Mr. Stokowski and the orchestra produced a well-blended accompaniment. The applause was considerably over the average length.

French numbers occupied the first half of the concert, with the prelude to the "Cour des Lys" scene from Debusay's music to D'Annunzio's "Le Martyre de Saint Sebastien" as the opening number. Not particularly familiar, it depicts, or least proposes to depict, to quote Kurt Schindler, who first introduced extracts from the model of the land of the shele work here ten years ago.
